

AT-A-GLANCE COMPARISON:

Traditional MSSP vs Red Canary

Not all security partners are equal. Use this comparison chart to understand key differences between Red Canary and traditional Managed Security Service Providers (MSSPs).

	Traditional MSSPs	Red Canary	Red Canary Value
 Technical Support	Limited technical support often staffed by junior IT analysts and engineers	Dedicated incident handlers with expertise in security engineering, analysis, and incident response	Gain peace of mind with reliable assistance from an advanced security team
 Threat Detection Coverage	Relies on traditional indicators to identify and prioritize potential threats	Analyzes endpoint telemetry using multiple techniques and technologies designed to maximize coverage against MITRE ATT&CK™	Broader detection coverage that does not rely on the presence of easily changed indicators or behaviors
 Triage & Analysis	Events are forwarded to the customer, resulting in all triage being handled by customer	Red Canary Cyber Incident Response Team (CIRT) performs full investigations of every potential threat	Save time spent on analyzing false positives
 Threat Notifications	Alerts include indicators and host information and can be very difficult to interpret	Threat detections break down vital information like behavior observations, user/endpoint info, and detailed threat progression timelines	Quickly understand the threat before making a response decision
 Threat Remediation	Customers take detections, investigate the validity, and respond using normal response tools and processes	Includes tooling to enable surgical response, in addition to automation for endpoint containment and remediation via Exec	Cut down mean time to respond (MTTR) to minutes—easily containing threats with a few clicks or via automation
 Integrations	Technology frequently lacks integration points with internal tools	Built on an open API and designed to plug into an organization's SIEM, workflow, and SecOps tools	Maximize your team's efficiency by easily integrating into pre-existing workflows
 Commitment	Typically manage dozens of products and offer many different services	Custom-built solution leveraging high-value data, proven process, and deep security expertise	Rely on extensive expertise from a partner that is 100% focused on helping you defend against modern threats

See the difference for yourself. Schedule a demo today.

redcanary.com/demo

